CTEN
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

BEYOND POWERPOINT
Teaching with Technology

Want to get involved?

CTEN, the College Teaching Effectiveness Network, is a graduate student run organization at Illinois which sponsors workshops for those currently teaching and/or preparing for an academic career.

Come to our workshops and/or join the CTEN steering committee. The committee meets monthly to plan and coordinate future CTEN workshops.

Subscribe to our mailing list or find us online for more information!

April 10th, 2015
12:00 - 1:30 pm
ACES Library
(Heritage Room)

f CTENIllinois

@ cten@illinois.edu

🌐 UofICTEN.weebly.com

Thank you for attending this workshop!

Each of our speakers were selected based on their experience teaching, effective and innovative utilization of different types of technology, and ability to provide a unique perspective on the topic.

You are encouraged to speak to more than one speaker.

-Ann, Chandra, and Mioy
(CTEN Steering Committee)

Harriett Green

English & Digital Humanities Librarian
University of Illinois Library

Harriett Green collaborates extensively with other University faculty on teaching digital publishing to undergraduate and graduate students, including courses in the departments of history, English, media studies, and architecture. She has also presented and published widely on digital pedagogy and digital literacies, including a research article in EDUCAUSE Review co-authored with Anita Chan, and at conferences for the Association for Digital Humanities Organization (ADHO), the Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL), and the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA).

Jamie Nelson

Senior eLearning Professional
Center for Innovation in Teaching & Learning

Jamie Nelson has been with the University for 8 years and teaches a variety of workshops including PowerPoint and Presentation Strategies, Using Student Response Systems to Engage Students and Promote Active Learning, and Utilizing Campus Technologies to Enhance Teaching and Learning. He is the i>clicker expert on campus, is heavily involved in wireless presentation technologies, and is a "super fan" of the Maker Movement and its role in education.

Dr. Robert Baird

Associate Director
Center for Innovation in Teaching & Learning

As Associate Director, Robert Baird helps guide the testing, evaluation, and use of campus emerging technology in the classroom and online. He has extensive experience in technology-enhanced classrooms, online teaching environments, and web-based student writing and multimedia projects. Robert also teaches cinema, new media, and digital video courses.

Dr. Florencia Henshaw

Director of Advanced Spanish
Department of Spanish & Portuguese

Dr. Florencia Henshaw obtained her PhD in Second Language Acquisition and Teacher Education from UIUC. Her research focuses on evaluating the extent to which different pedagogical tools and practices may benefit language learners. She has created and redesigned several courses to be delivered fully online, she has written and given talks on the use of technology in the classroom, and she has also authored two Spanish textbooks, both of which include a significant online component.

Dr. Norma Scagnoli

Director of eLearning
College of Business

Dr. Norma Scagnoli plays a key role in faculty development and integration of technology in classroom teaching and learning. She is also a research assistant professor in the Division of Human Resource Development, Department of Education Policy, Organization and Leadership at the College of Education. She has extensive experience in online education as an instructor, administrator, and researcher, with a particular focus on the uses of technology in education, including the design of new learning environments, digital literacy, and adult learning.